COMMISSION WILL LOCATE NORMAL

Eight Men to Decide Where New State Schools Shall Be.

The State Senate passed the Harris bill last Monday establishing two new normal schools, one in eastern Kentucky and the other in western Kentucky. In so doing it accepted the House amendment providing for a commission to select the locations for the two schools. Three members are to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor and five by the Speaker of the House. The original bill left it to the State Board of Education, composed of the Superintendent of Schools, the Secretary of State and the Attorney General. The bill needs only the Governor's signature to become a law. Louisa is an applicant and will be in the fight to the end. This is an ideal school town and has advantages that outweigh the larger amount of money that some other city may offer.

Ashland should stay out of this contest. It is not as desirable a place for such a school as Louisa.

The stay of execution was granted to give Chamblin's attorney, Theo. K. Funk, Portsmouth, and F. A. Shively, West Union, opportunity to file motion for a review of his case before the supreme court.

Continental Supply Co. in New Location

The Continental Supply Company has moved its large stock of oil well supplies from the Snyder building near the freight depot to the Yates building on Main street, at the rear of the Louisa National Bank. This is the building formerly occupied by the Eldorado theater which has been remodeled and equipped for taking care of the Continental's business to the best advantage.

This company carries a large stock of everything needed by oil companies operating in this field and enjoys a large business throughout the fields of the Big Sandy valley and adjacent counties.

They also handle machinery of the various kinds used in this work. The Continental is a very large company and has branch houses in most of the oil fields of this country. The local house is under the direction of W. B. Trevillian, who has a thorough knowledge of the business and is always on the job. He invites oil workers and oil men to make this store their headquarters when in Louisa.

Work on the Mayo Trail Goes Forward

R. G. Hill & Co., contractors on the Mayo Trail from Louisa to the Boyd county line, have almost completed the steam shovel work across the hill from the Arnett place to the Short farm, three miles north of Louisa. Another shovel will be put to work soon near Fallsburg. The culvert work is well along toward completion.

A sub-contractor is at work on the end of the road near Boyd county, and has made good progress.

The weather has been bad ever since the Mayo Trail job was started. The contractors expect to finish the entire contract by August unless the weather should be unusually bad all season.

JOHN G. WHITE, JR. KILLED IN ASHLAND

Mystery still cloaks the shooting and killing of John G. White, Jr., 26, oil well driller, of Prospect Place, more than five days after his dead body was found in a pool of his own blood in the doorway of the insurance office of Phipps & Thomas, Fifteenth street and Carter avenue, in Ashland Saturday morning.

No clues can be given by witnesses or members of the dead man's family. The mystery remains as much a puzzle as it did immediately following the discovery of the body.

Credence in the suicide theory cannot be given by the police, they say, for nothing has developed to show that White had any reason of any character to take his own life.

There seems to be no doubt but that the young oil man was murdered but on whom the deed shall be fixed has not been discovered by the police who have run down and found no truth in every clue offered them.

The suicide theory was dropped because evidence showed that White was happy at home, loved his work, had no financial troubles, had a father back of him in case he needed money and went with a girl with whom he was extremely happy.

Murder is the only thing left for the police to work upon and there is a dearth of material to give a foundation to this theory. The position of the body, the holding of a cigarette in his hand and the way the gun was held in his hand across his chest all give rise to murder but no clue as to who might have committed the deed can be located.

He was the son of John G. White and had returned to his home in Ashland the evening before from Ivyton where he was employed in the oil fields. He expected to leave Ashland on the early morning train for Lexington.

LONG SESSION OF KENTUCKY SENATE

The Kentucky Senate was in continuous session from Tuesday at one o'clock until Wednesday morning. It was caused by a Republican filibuster and the arbitrary rulings of Lieutenant Governor Ballard in an effort to prevent the majority from passing measures to which the minority was opposed. But the bills were finally passed.

One of the bills creates a new State Highway Commission with four members, as follows: Gen. Wm. Seibert, of Bowling Green, a retired army engineer, graduate of West Point U. S. Military Academy; Leslie Samuels of Bardonia, civil engineer of large experience; M. L. Conley, of Cannel City, civil engineer and railroad General Manager; Ben Weller, of Paducah, successful business man and a member of present State Highway Commission.

This bill is now in the House. The road bonds bill for a vote on $50,000,000 bond issue is not yet through the Senate. It provides a commission of twelve members to supervise the bond issue and its expenditure.

Partisan feeling is running high, as the result of the Senate fight and the outcome is being watched with interest.

CAPT. G. W. DAVIS DIES AT FULLERTON

The following is from the Portsmouth Times of last Saturday:

A long and useful career was closed at 3 p. m. Friday when death summoned Captain G. W. Davis, for many years one of the best known citizens of Fullerton, Ky., and a man who had countless friends in that community and in Portsmouth, who will be deeply grieved to learn of his passing away.

Captain Davis had been ill with influenza for several weeks and complications following caused his death.

When Captain Davis developed jaundice several days ago his condition took a change for the worse and relatives were prepared for the worst. Had Captain Davis lived until July 31, next, he would have been 71 years of age. He was born in Paintsville, Ky., and was the son of James and Naomi Davis. In addition to his wife he is survived by the following children: Captain J. F. Davis, Fullerton; Robert, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Nora Forney, of Kingston, W. Va.; Harry, of Catlettsburg, and George and Ernest at home. Two sons, Glenn and Eugene, preceded their father in death.

He also is survived by one brother, Roscoe of Van Lear, and the following sisters: Mrs. Elizabeth Ford of Auxler; Mrs. Tress Childers, Mrs. James Spradlin and Mrs. Warren Ausler of Van Lear; Mrs. Melvin Hall and Mrs. C. C. Price of Paintsville, and Mrs. R. W. Akers of Portsmouth.

Captain Davis was a river man all his life and was well and favorably known from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati. He had always owned a boat of some character and for a long time was interested in the upper ferry boat. During the latter years of his life he devoted most of his time to timber and real estate business in and around Fullerton.

Captain Davis was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge and was a convert at Billy Sunday's famous campaign in this city. He was always square in his dealings and made friends wherever he went. He was "whole-souled, congenial and companionable, and the news of this good citizen's passing away will be learned with genuine sorrow.

The funeral services were conducted from the home in Fullerton and burial was in the family burying ground at Frost, Ky.

Mountain Illiterates Have Plenty of Brains

Chicago, February 24.—It is unfair for anyone to think of illiterates as ignorant. Dr. A. E. Winslow, of Boston, told delegates from 14 states attending the illiteracy conference of Middle West and Northern states meeting here today.

"Every illiterate from the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee and the Carolinas was better skilled to shoot and dodge shots in the World War than United States Senators and University Presidents," he said. "Every one of them was worth more to the army than all their critics when it came to handling fire arms or facing fire arms."

"The keynote was struck when it was said that they could not write to their families and, if they could, their families couldn't read what they wrote."

"In the mountains in the east of Kentucky and Tennessee and on the west of the Carolinas there have been as good native brains as in Wall street, Harvard, Yale and Princeton. The mountains have been full of men of pure blood brains. Philadelphia and Chicago, New York and San Francisco have been as illiterate to the brain messages of mountaineers as they are to the Sunday school lessons of William Jennings Bryan.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

This is to announce to the public that the Big Sandy Garage has moved from its former location on the L. F. Wellman property to the Burns property across from the Lobaco Company in the new building erected by J. H. Blackburn, and is now ready for work again. Its owners, Holbrook & Fyffe, have had lots of experience in both electrical and mechanical work. Mr. Fyffe has had a very wide experience in mechanical work, having done nothing else since his boyhood. He has been engaged in the auto and gas engine work for the past eight years; all of his learning except four months has been actual experience. Those four months was spent in the school of Motor Mechanics in the Motor Transport Corps of the U. S. Army, during the world's war, and was under the instruction of Master Electrician Waldo Rios of Los Angeles.

Mr. Holbrook has had five years experience in automobile and gas engine work, and was chief mechanic for three years of the Union Gas & Oil Co. of Lawrence and Johnson counties. He has taken a course in electrical work with the Chicago Engineering Works. (Advertisement)

THE MAN THEY CANNOT FORGET

(The following remarkable article is an editorial from Colliers Weekly, a strong Republican publication.)

One of the permanent possessions of a human heart is the memory of its great enthusiasms. You may have come to disdain and even despise them, but they are never uprooted. Then you reached your highest—and you know it.

When a noble ideal kindles such enthusiasms, that ideal becomes one of those things that without warning, at rare intervals, flares up. And you sit in the light of the flare and ponder. Why did it fail? Not because it was not beautiful—right—desirable. Was it because you were not fit for beauty, righteousness, desirability?

Peoples are like men. They may lay aside their great hopes, but to the end there are hours when they sit with them and ponder. Perhaps that is the explanation of the persistent, mysterious, unconscious way in which men today draw together around Woodrow Wilson. It requires explanation. Why, in Washington for months now, has the slightest wagon followed his car? Why do the chattering tourists inside grow silent as they pass it? They don't peer. They lift their hats and sigh, and it sometimes takes minutes and striking sights to break the mood the fleeting glimpse of that drawn, long white face has stirred.

Why is it that on Sundays and holidays men and women and children—most of them busy through the week—walk to his house and stand there in groups, speak together in hushed tones as if something solemn and ennobling moved in them? Curiosity? Men chat, and gibe and jostle in curiosity. These people are silent, gentle, and orderly. You will see them before the theater on nights when it is known that Mr. Wilson is within, quietly waiting for him to come out. There will be fifty, a hundred, even sometimes a thousand.

They cheer him as he passes, and there are often chokes in the cheers, and always tenderness. Why do they do it? Nothing, more instinctive, more unplanned, goes on in Washington. Let it be known that he is in his seat in a theater, and the whole house will rise in homage. Let his face be thrown on the screen, and it will draw a great light that the face of no other living American receives. And that is not true in Washington alone.

Why should the vast throng that packed Pennsylvania avenue from end to end on Armistice Day have stood reverently, with heads bared in silence as the bier of the Unknown Soldier passed, attended by all the official greatness of the moment—the President, his Cabinet, the Supreme Court, the House, the Senate, the Diplomatic Corps, Pershing, Foch—why should this great crowd have watched in silence until, quite unexpectedly, a carriage far down the line came to view? Why should this crowd, unconscious of what it was doing, have broken in to a low cry of sympathy and grief: "There's Wilson!" The cry flew down the long avenue.

They saw him as the man who had called into service the boy they honored, who had put the wonderful light in his eye, that light of which a great French surgeon said: "The American soldier is different from all others. I don't know what it is, whether it is God, the Monroe doctrine, or President Wilson; but he has something in his eye." Yes, Wilson's place was by the dead soldier, and the people knew it, and told him so by their unconscious outburst.

Woodrow Wilson means something to the people of the United States: something profound, something they cannot forget. People think of him now as the man who was behind the inspiration of their greatest moments; who stirred them to a fresh understanding of the meaning of words that had become mere patter on many tongues—"democracy," "union." He made them realities, personal, deep—showed them as the reason of all that is good in our present, all that is hopeful in our future, the working basis on which men may strive to liberty of soul and peaceful achievement. He made them literally things to die for, lifting all of our plain, humble thoughts and the honor of office into the ranks of those who are willing to die for an ideal—the highest plane that humans reach.

People are thinking, also, of his work in that after-war period when the hate, revenge, and bitterness that war has loosed have none of the restraints that war compels, and we must, by reason and good will and patience, restore our controls—that terrible period we speak of as reconstruction. There too he kindled enthusiasm. "Now," he said, "let us do what men have long dreamed—give to each people its chance, cut down the foolish barriers of trade, limit our armaments, enter into a union of all nations pledged to cooperation and peace."

The peoples of the earth rallied to his plan, pledged themselves. And then the loosed passions began their war on him. Those who wanted peace and believed it easy; those who hated peace and believed it impossible; those who envied his place, differed with his judgments, failed of his favor—these and many more joined in an attack in the history of this earth. He fought to a finish, that he might secure the pledge of the nations to the ideal of world cooperation.

He won—won with the peoples of the world, if not with all of their governments. They look to him as the man who drove that ideal so deep into the soul of the nations that no man or men can ever destroy it. It has become an asset of tormented humanity, a possible way out of slaughter and hate. Through all the future, men will be building upon it, adapting, expanding, as men have built on Washington's work, on Lincoln's work, knowing that their efforts rest on something essentially sound and secure.

They are simple people, remember, those thousands whose hearts he had unkindled. They are the people who do the work of the world, and their minds are easily bewildered. "He has deceived you," they were told. "He has given you dreams. Dreams are not for men. You live by realities, not ideals. Out with him! Down with him! As a great nation, you have strength, you have gold. Keep them. Stand alone. Do not forget that you do not live by ideals."

And the people withdrew—bewildered. But the shouting over, they remembered their long days of exaltation, of sacrifice, of freedom and boldness, of worthwhileness. Was it only a deception? Was all they had felt a mere magic of words on their untrained minds, the stir of a fleeting passion in their lives? Was there no sense, no reality, in it all?

That is what thousands upon thousands have been asking in these past days. And slowly they are turning to him who led them. His suffering face and palsied side are a symbol of their crippled hopes. "How is it with him," they ask, "a living sacrifice to that faith and that vision? Does he still believe? Has he lost faith as well as strength?"

And so they seek him. He means something to them; they don't quite know what. He is a living link with their noblest phase. Those who destroyed that phase are giving them nothing in its place. What does it all mean? And so they follow his carriage, gather before his house, stand in rain and snow and cold before the theater to get even the most fleeting glimpse, something that will bid them live again as they did in those great moments.

FARM BLOC GETS DIRECT MARKETING

Here is shown President Harding signing the Capper-Volstead bill which makes legal, co-operating marketing by farmers. It is the first signal victory for the Farm Bloc in Congress. This new law permits farmers to pool their crops and sell direct to consumers, thus doing away with the middleman's profits.

YATESVILLE

The weather is still fine for the time of the year but our roads are impassable and therefore travel is impossible and all of our local merchants are still hauling the goods from Fullers station. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blankenship a Red Cross nurse, and to Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Ball a young American soldier, that is in case soldiers and nurses should ever be needed again. J. W. Elkins has been visiting his brother-in-law, John Compton, on Cats fork, who has two small children that have been dangerously ill with pneumonia. Mr. and Mrs. John B. Riffe of Louisa passed through here en route to their son, Heber Riffe's on Cat. Heber has had a very close call with pneumonia. A carpenter force consisting of W. H. Bentley, Millard Crank and James Hughes, has completed a new house for Ralph Blankenship which is to be occupied by Bristow Roberts for the present year. Our telephone line-man is kept busy almost every day on the Louisa and Two Mile lines which are both on the same poles. The steam shovel keeps them broken almost continually. We are having a great deal of sickness throughout our neighborhood and surrounding vicinity and we are minus a doctor any nearer than Louisa or East Fork. Fallsburg or Yatesville would be a splendid location for a doctor at this and all time to come. Earsel Wellman is transacting business in Greenup this week. It is now moving time of the year and everybody is moving somewhere and everybody is moving to where everybody moved from. William Ekers has a couple of teams that are furnishing coal for the road steam shovels. COUNTRY GREENHORN.

SKAGGS

We are sorry to note the death of little Coda Sparks, son of Parish and Margaret Sparks. It was all so sudden. The mother was at home with her three children, when on Tuesday morning she arose and all seemed well as usual. Little Coda ate hearty at breakfast but seemed a little sick through the day, and that night all went to bed as usual. But it was not late in the night that the mother became alarmed at the intense suffering of her child and called for help. Dr. C. B. Rice was called, also Dr. Chitt Osborn, of Blaine. The father, Parish Sparks, who is our Justice of the Peace, was at Louisa attending court. A message was sent by phone to him. He made all possible speed homeward and when he arrived his baby was unconscious and in the most intense suffering with that dreaded disease, spinal meningitis. The doctors and all its grandparents, viz: Menifee and Melissa Sparks, Ed and Vela Skaggs, were all there doing all that loving hands could do. But God in His infinite wisdom saw fit to take their dear baby back to his fold. He was 19 months old and an uncommonly bright boy, idolized by the parents and grandparents, and all who knew him. He was buried Thursday, Feb. 23, on the point near Menifee Sparks' home.

Harry H. Sheff has gone to Huntington after his mother. She will spend the summer here. There have been some changes in the oil field among their employees. Freeman Wright, the ganger at this place, was sent to work in Lee county, and E. L. Legg took his place here. Willie McKinster and his brother Milton have quit work and gone home. We were sorry to learn of the death of Harvey Lester, of Martha, Ky. He was one of the oldest men of that community. He and his wife had made their home with their daughter, Mrs. Neat Bailey, and were there at their old home when the end came. He had lost all reason and was quite helpless for months. He was laid to rest Thursday, Feb. 23, on a point near his home. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. George Bailey of Ohio, and Mrs. Neat Bailey. We are blessed with four stores in our community: Curt Young and sister Annie at the mouth of Keaton; Rev. William Lester at the Sam Terry place Emory L. Holbrook and Rufus H. Skaggs in the oil field selling goods. Jas. H. Skaggs and wife of Louisa are visiting here this week. W. J. Heeter and Bud Diamond were here this week finishing up a gas well that they drilled in on Keaton. Ocia Kazee and Ruby Wheeler were married last week. May they live long and be happy. B. B.

The bereaved husband and children have our heartfelt sympathy. Edna Leadingham was the guest of Minnie B. Pennington Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wright are moving into the house of Life Webb near Gladys. Little Louise Wright, who has been sick is able to be out. Arnold Rice is our mail carrier at Dennis now. Jim Shivel and Haskell Thompson still make their regular calls at Rev. Hutchison's. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Berry, who have been visiting their parents near Gladys have returned home.

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Ruffin's place. "I kept getting headaches and having to get to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Isn't it true that the flavor of a food must be simply delicious to please you at breakfast? Brednut comes a breakfast test. Even mere men remark on its fresh delicate flavor.

An eye-opener for Men

How clever women have seized a food betterment

BUSINESS men, of course, pride themselves on their quick adoption of improvements. But local women have proved that they are every bit as keen-minded as local men.

Three short weeks ago a new idea in food was announced here. Already it is an achieved success. Already many of your most critical housekeepers have shown themselves "Quick to accept a new idea"—a compliment often paid to American women.

Brednut certainly deserves its cordial welcome in your town. Don't you agree that as a bread spread there is nothing quite so delicious and fresh flavored? Have you noticed its smooth spreading texture—its welcome new economy?

How children love this bread spread! And how good it is for them!

It's made from pasteurized milk and rich tropical nuts

There is no need for secrecy about the making of this delicious spread for bread. For Brednut is just the cream of rich tropical nuts and pasteurized milk churned into a new table delicacy: churned in model surroundings under careful supervision.

Doubtless you will find that many of your friends are serving Brednut three times a day. Women are delighted with the helpful Brednut economy and with the family's pleasure in eating it.

Will you order a pound today? Notice that your Brednut comes to you a pure white—indicative of its pure origin. You can actually see the purity of Brednut. You can quickly color Brednut to a golden yellow with the wholesome vegetable material which your grocer will give you.

Special Notice: For a little while longer your grocer is authorized to continue the special carton offer on Brednut. Read the details of this offer below:

Save your Brednut cartons! A pound free for every 5 cartons! This offer expires March 18th

Take them to your grocer and receive a pound free. Six pounds for the price of 5. Whatever price you pay, the free extra pound brings down the average cost to approximately 23c per pound.

Lettuce and Egg Sandwich

Perfectly delicious with Brednut

Chop two hard-boiled eggs. Mix thoroughly with mayonnaise. Spread over lettuce leaves and place between slices of bread cut thin and spread with Brednut. Notice how delightfully the delicate flavor of Brednut blends with the delicate ingredients.

Poem by Uncle John

THE RIGHT MEDICINE.

When it comes to stoppin' crime, Law will do it, every time! Might have called the Kaiser's bluff, if we'd jes' had laws enough. Needn't had to go an' fight, if we'd kept the law in sight.

Every time they steal a car, throw a statute on the bar. . . . Every yeggman, poor or rich, dreads the Law more than the itch. . . . Every crook that's got half sense, shoots the leadin' evidence, swipes the goods with dirty paws,—runs away—an' dreads the laws!

Pile the Laws high on the shelves, where they can enforce themselves. . . . Makes no difference who's the clerk, Pass the laws an' let 'em work. . . . Legislatur's settin' there, hears the cry from everywhere, tellin' of the country's need, heaps of newlaw laws to plead! Or to pass a million bills, which would cure our social ills. Keep 'em comin' thick an' fast, hammer hard, until they're passed!

Let enforcement stand, divorced. . . . Laws ain't made to be enforced, Never mind the fools' complaint, makin' fuss because they ain't. . . . When there's crime, remove the cause,—all we need is, Laws—More Laws!

Yours truly, Uncle John.

Congress continues to do nothing, which is probably better than doing worse.

The threat of a coal strike is increasing coal shipments from the Big Sandy valley, making business better for everybody in the coal fields.

The Kentucky Legislature is now in the home stretch, having only ten more working days in which to do its work. Night sessions are now being resorted to in order to get something done.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN WRITES FROM KANSAS

Paola, Kansas, March 1, 1922.
Editor Big Sandy News,
Louisa, Kentucky.
Sir:—I send you under another cover two dollars on subscription for your paper. I enjoy reading it. Glad to know my old home State is progressing in everything that it takes to make a State great.
Church work, Sabbath schools, advanced education, all speak well for your county and state. Also, development of oil, gas, coal, railroads, improvements of your navigable rivers.
I wish to inquire if there is any living members of the 14th Ky. Regiment living in Big Sandy. Is Reuben Roberts still living? If so, tell him to write to me. Give me the names of all living members of the grand old regiment. I read of the death of Capt. D. A. Leffingwell and Marcum with much regret. They were two splendid soldiers.
Respectfully yours,
J. C. COLLINS.

THE BROCADE BAG

By KATE EDMONDS

© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Olive swung the bag carelessly as she walked; it was a beautiful thing, created of oriental brocade in peacock shades. Larry Deane had given it to her on her birthday, shortly after their engagement, and she cherished it above all her treasures save the beautiful cluster of diamonds on her finger.

"The cord will break and you will lose the bag," cautioned Larry.

"It is quite strong," retorted Olive, quite unhesitatingly.

"I don't suppose it would matter if you did lose it," went on Larry in a frigid tone.

Olive pondered provokingly. "There are some really precious things in it—my vanity case, my gold purse, the philopena gift Joe Watterson gave me, one of his letters, and—"

"Isn't that enough?" glared Larry, for they had been disagreeing about Joe's attentions to Olive.

As he helped her out of the car at her home and she released her hand, he discovered that she had left the cluster-of-diamonds ring in his palm. He grew white and stared at her.

"You mean that, Olive?"

"Of course."

"Why?"

"You do not trust me—you are jealous."

"I am sorry you believe that—I said nothing until you criticised my dancing with Ella—well, what does it matter? If you really cared you could not play with happiness in this way. Good-by," he said, and drove madly down the drive.

On the veranda, Olive watched him with unbelieving eyes; as he went the gray car became a blur because she was crying. When her mother inquired why she wept, Olive confessed that she had lost her beautiful brocade bag.

"How careless," chided Mrs. Dare. "Perhaps it is in the car, dear. Shall I telephone to Larry?"

"No—no—please do not! I have given Larry back his ring—and I've lost his bag—and I—never want any of them back again," announced Miss Dare in a wavering tone.

"You have lost something very precious," remarked her mother sadly.

"The bag didn't have much in it—just a bread-and-butter note from Joe Watterson and a few other things."

"I did not mean the bag—I meant Larry," was Mrs. Dare's quiet reply.

"Some bird," ejaculated Larry, as the little gray car poked along through a pleasant byway on the road home.

His gaze was fixed on a bit of brilliant blue-green perched in a shad bush beside the road.

"Olive's bag!" he ejaculated, recognizing it with a pang, and the little gray car stopped abruptly. Larry took the bag from its perch and studied the gorgeous peacocks woven into the fabric. She had said Joe Watterson's letter was there—ruthlessly he pulled the bag open and looked; the golden purse, the foolish pencil Joe had given her—it looked like a stick of peppermint candy—some letters which he recognized as his own—and one pencilled scrawl, which might be Joe's. Suddenly he did not care about Joe. His own letters made the bag precious to her—naughty little thing. Just then he heard footsteps, hurrying.

Larry hung the bag on the shad bush and the little car scampered to a bend in the road and waited breathlessly. Larry peered through the underbrush.

It was Olive.

She was hatless and there were traces of tears on her soft cheeks and her lips were very pathetic.

"When she saw the brocade bag she uttered a soft cry of pleasure, and snatching it from the bush, hugged it to her lips."

"You dear, dear thing!" she sobbed, "you are all that I have left!"

That is what she really said, for Larry had stolen upon her and heard her just in time to hold her very tightly in his strong arms.

"Is it too late for happiness, dear?" he asked the repentant girl.

"Not—if you can forgive my folly," she whispered.

"Then—let us say it will never happen again—and the ring is in the bag!"

At last when they were seated in the car and Larry had started it, Olive turned swiftly.

"What was that sound?"

Larry said he didn't know, but I think he suspected it was a quiet chuckle from the sympathetic little gray car.

Regular Zoological Garden.

We swiped this question from a contemporary and asked some of the wives for their answers to it:

"What does your husband do?"

Here are the answers:

He always is growling—he's a bear.

He always is barking—he's a dog.

He is always crowing—he's a rooster.

He never says a word—he's a wise old owl.

He is always saying neigh (nay)—he's a horse.

He is always kicking—he's a mule.

He's always scratching (for money)—he's a cat.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BETTER POULTRY.

To the Poultry Raisers of the County:—Do you want better poultry? Lawrence county is standardizing on the S. C. Rhode Island Red. Arrangements have been made to obtain eggs from utility flocks of this variety. These eggs are to be distributed at $1.00 per setting to any of the farmers in this county. If you would buy these eggs individually they would probably cost you $3.00 per setting. The object of the standardization work is to have all the farmers of this county raising the same kind of poultry, so that this county will become noted for its pure bred poultry.

If you care to know more about this work I shall be glad to inform you at any time. You can not afford to miss this opportunity to start with a pure bred flock.

CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

On last Sunday night the service was in charge of the women and the meeting was led by Mrs. C. F. Rice. They rendered a splendid program which consisted of songs, etc. An able prayer was made by Mrs. E. W. Kirk. The congregation was treated to a violin solo by Mrs. John Brickner, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Castner. The manner in which this solo was rendered showed skill and unusual talent and was fine and much appreciated.

Mrs. Rice's introductory remarks as to the Missionary Society were well delivered. Mrs. F. T. D. Wallace gave a history of the Missionary Society, stating that the one at Louisa was organized in 1878, having been continued from that time to now—44 years. We note that Mrs. Wallace was one of the officers when the organization was perfected which was among the first in the Western Virginia Conference.

Mrs. Josephine Rice was the usher of the evening. The program all the way was interesting and well carried out.

The Sunday evening service prior to this was in charge of the Men's Bible class, their leader being Capt. F. F. Freese. At this meeting a good program was given. G. B. Carter made a pleasing address, his subject being Israel. He gave an outline of the Israelites through their journeys. His speech was well prepared, showing considerable knowledge and research in Bible study and was well received by the audience. Capt. Freese as a leader filled his place in a very creditable way.

At the morning service last Sunday Rev. Bell preached on the subject of personal evangelism. Among the many things he said was that it was not incumbent upon God to send his Son to save the world from sin, but it was the great love he had for humanity. He used as his text the familiar language, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." The main thought in this discussion was personal evangelism, and if all churches would follow his instructions there is no reason for a dead church, spiritually speaking, and no good reason why anybody in the community should die unsaved. It was a splendid service.

DAD'S LETTERS.

My dad ain't just the letter writin' kind—
He'd rather let the women see to that;
He's got a mess o' troubles on his mind,
And likes to keep 'em underneath his hat.

And p'haps because he isn't very strong
On talkin', why, he's kind o' weak on ink;
But he can work like sin the whole year long,
And crickey, how that dad o' mine can think!

When I set out from Homeville last July,
He didn't bawl the way my sister did;
He just shook hands and says, "Well, boy, goodbye."
(He's got his feelin's but he keeps 'em hid).

And so when mother writes about the things
That I spend half my time a-thinkin' in of,
There's one short line that every letter brings:
"Father will write and meanwhile sends his love."

"Father will write." Well, perhaps some day he will.
There's lots of funny prophecies come true,
But if he just keeps promisin' to, still,
I'll understand, and dad'll know I do.
—The Stars and Stripes.

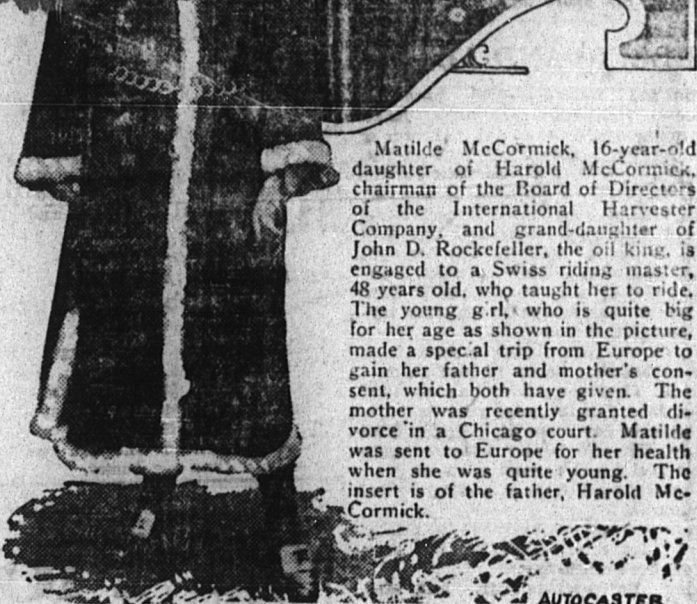

Have you ever run across those people who will give you their life history upon the slightest provocation? A frightful bore, isn't it? And sometimes it is very embarrassing for quite frequently they tell things which they have no right to divulge. Yet it is a hopeless task to try and make them see that the intimate details of their life never interest anyone as much as themselves.

We hear people speak of an "ungovernable temper," yet, there is really no such thing. Every temper can be governed if the possessor exercises sufficient self control. It is merely a matter of foglish self-indulgence or broken restraint. Many people who think they have ungovernable tempers say it is easy for others to preach, but it is not so easy for them to put the preaching into practice. However, we are all brothers and sisters under the skin and we all have more or less the same things with which to contend. Even the most calm people have times when they would like to throw dishes and break the furniture, but that is no reason they should so far lose control of themselves as to do it.

It used to be considered very stylish for a woman to have nerves. A nervous breakdown was considered quite a luxury, usually the result of too much social gayety and consequently loss of sleep.

However, "nerves" are going rapidly out of style and the sooner a lot of our so-called nervous people find this out, the better for themselves and those living with them.

We have all met women and some men too, who are suffering from at least five deadly ailments according to their own mind, yet they live on and on and seem to have a fairly good time too. As a rule they bury all the healthy members of their family and finally die of a very prosaic illness known as old age before any of their five deadly ailments have sufficiently developed to kill them. We have never had sufficient courage to ask these people for an explanation of such phenomena but no doubt one would be forthcoming.

AUTOCASTER

That is the sort of a thing into which "nerves" get one and such people should have our sympathy, not for their ailments but for their lack of will-power, though more often we feel that a shaking would do them more good than sympathy.

SMOKY VALLEY

We are very sorry to say that our singing school teacher failed to keep his promise with us. A large crowd was out Saturday night and was so disappointed. We hope to get a good teacher soon. Vint Nolen has gone to Portsmouth, Ohio, where he hopes to find work. Miss Garnie Diamond was calling on the Misses Hayes Monday. Mrs. Vint Nolen and little son, Paul Eugene, are spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hay. The people at this place are preparing to build a new church. HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

THE HOUR'S NEED.

God give us men. The time demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands; men whom the lust of the office does not kill; men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who possess opinions and a will; men who have honor; men who will not lie; men who can stand before a demagog and damn his treacherous flatteries without winking; tall men, sun-browned who live above the fog, in public duty and in private thinking.—Holland.

On Sincerity and Reliability.

Never be ashamed to say "I do not know." Men will then believe you when you say "I do not know." Never be ashamed to say "I can't afford it." "I can't afford to waste my time in the idleness to which you invite me," or "I can't afford the money you ask me to spend." Never affect to be other than you are—neither wiser or richer. Learn to say "No" with decision; "Yes" with caution; "No" with decision when it resists temptation; "Yes" with caution whenever it implies a promise, for a promise once given is abond inviolable.

A man is already of consequence in the world when it is known we can implicitly rely upon him. Often have I known a man to be preferred in stations of honor and profit because he had this reputation. When he said he knew a thing, he knew it, and when he said he would do a thing, he did it.—Bulwer Cytton.

Life is what we make it—a garden or a desert.

Stand close to all, but lean on none. And if the crowd desert you Stand just as fearlessly alone As if a throng begirt you; And learn what long the wise have known, Self-flight alone can hurt you.

—Selected.

There is nothing little to the really great in spirit.—Dickens.

Grit makes the man. Want of it the chump; The men who win Lay hold, hang on, and hump!

—Exchange.

UNCONQUERABLE.

The habit of never being whipped, of always keeping up the fight—that is the quality of the great leader. The man who never admits defeat is the man the world has to take into account. Time and again the foes he is fighting may think they have him down. But before they know it he is on his feet sounding the advance. Such a man needs events. He helps create the new heavens and the new earth of the prophet's vision. A mighty force in the universe is the unconquerable soul.

SELF-CONFIDENCE.

Believe in yourself, believe in humanity, believe in the success of your understanding. Fear nothing and no one. Love your work. Work, hope, trust. Keep in touch with today. Teach yourself to be practical and up-to-date and sensible. You cannot fail.

Let no one falter who thinks he is right.—Lincoln.

LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Athenian Literary Society of the Louisa High School met Friday, Feb. 24th, and rendered the program published Feb. 10th. The meeting was largely attended and the program was unusually well rendered, especially the debate which was: "Resolved that the Congress of the United States should pass the Soldier's Bonus Bill." Many good points were made by both sides and the judges rendered their decision in favor of the negative. The debate was given by members of the Freshman Class, who made it very interesting. The school has a right to be proud of this class as it shows much talent in this work.

Mary Olive Bell gave a humorous reading which was very good. Ella Marie Kinstler is extraordinary in writing biographical sketches. Mabel Dobbins made a very interesting talk on, "Some points of Historical Interest in our own State Kentucky." She began with the pioneer day of Daniel Boone and traced down to the present time. Lorna Doone Miller gave a good paper on "The School Grumbler," but we don't think she's quite so bad as she pretended. This Society is growing and is doing much better than it did in the first half of the term. The next program will be published in next week's issue.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Miss Opal Austin went to Williamson Friday where she spent the week-end with friends and returned to Louisa Monday.

Miss Opal Plybon has returned to school after a few weeks absence on account of illness.

Miss Clara Layne, of Zeida, entertained the Freshman Class of L. H. S. last week.

If you want to see some good-looking rings take a look at the Senior's new class rings.

The much-dreaded monthly tests will be given Thursday and Friday and everyone will be relieved when they are over.

The Science department received an additional shipment of apparatus last week and is expecting a complete supply of chemicals within the next few days.

We are glad to have Ezra Mials back in school after a few days' absence.

The members of the Freshman Class welcome Eleanor Justice back into their midst after a few months' absence.

Mr. Earl Justice was a visitor in the high school on Tuesday afternoon.

(The following exposition theme was written as a regular class exercise by a member of the Sophomore English Class):

HOW TO MAKE PICTURES WITHOUT A CAMERA.

It is very easy to make photographs without a camera and for only a cent or two. You can make photographs of flowers, leaves and ferns, and you can even copy portraits and any picture from a book or magazine if it is printed on paper, that is white at the back, without a camera.

All you have to have is a packet of self-toning paper and one pound of hypo, both of these are cheap and will make about twelve big photographs or forty-eight little ones. One side of the self-toning paper is shiny and you must be careful not to expose it to the sunlight for if you do it will turn black.

Now we take a piece of the self-toning paper just the size we want our picture to be, then we take the leaves or fern or flower or whatever we want to photograph, and lay it down on the shiny side of the paper. Now we get a piece of glass and a piece of heavy cardboard, the same size of glass, and two elastic bands to hold them together, and put the glass over the fern and the cardboard at the back of the paper; then slip a rubber band on either end to hold it firm. This is to make our photograph clear. Now we take it out in the light and leave it in the sun until the paper seen through the glass has turned quite black. Then we must take it indoors, and when we slip off the elastic bands we shall find a wonderful picture of the leaves with all the delicate veins showing clearly.

But if we should take this photograph out in the sunlight again the leaves will turn black too. So we take about two teaspoonsful of hypo—hypo is a powder which looks very much like baking powder—and put it in a dish and pour some water in on it. In a few minutes the hypo will dissolve in the water; then we put the photograph in it and leave it for ten minutes. It will turn red at first but afterwards it will turn black again. When this is done, we take the photograph out and put it in a basin of clear water. It is best to leave the basin under a tap in the sink and let the water run into it for two hours. It must be washed in clear water for at least two hours or it will not last. After this is done we take the photograph out and let it dry and it is finished.

Some people gather all kinds of leaves and make the pictures into a little album, with the name of the tree each leaf came from underneath.

Or if we want to copy a picture or photograph all we have to do is to take the picture and place a piece of self-toning paper against it. Then we put them both between the glass and cardboard just like we did the leaf and leave it in the sunlight. But when we take the paper out we shall find a copy on the self-toning paper but the black lines of the picture are white in our photograph, and then we will have to take another photograph of our photograph and everything will be alright—with the black parts black and the white parts white just as it should be. You can make photographs of almost anything in this way and it is much fun.

In Memory of Dr. Rice

Dr. William Alfred Rice was born in Lawrence county, Ky., January 24, 1859; departed this life Feb. 7, 1922, aged 63 years and 14 days. He was married to Rilda Ann Boggs Sept. 2, 1884; to this union was born two children, Doshie and Dova. Doshie departed this life March 23, 1909. Dova is the wife of John N. Boggs. She has two children, Kenneth and Doshie Alene. Dr. Rice graduated in medicine in 1890 and that same year he moved to Fallsburg, Ky., where he lived for 30 years. He moved out on his farm near Dennis two years ago. He bought property in Louisa and had moved there last fall. Dr. Rice served the people of Lawrence county as a doctor for 32 long years. There was not a home in our country unless a new one just erected that Dr. Rice had not been in as a physician. He was one of the best doctors in the county and a man we all loved. His place in our country hearts and homes can not be filled. No more on earth will we see his smiling face or hear him humming his little songs; no more can we call him to our sick beds but thank God we are to be judged according to our deeds done in the body and not according to our profession. Dr. Rice was always helping the poor and sick, the orphans and widows of our country. He had an outward sign of an inward work. He was always doing religion and professing not. We do not limit the mercies of God and will say to his dear wife and daughter and son-in-law, friends and neighbors and relatives, to live for heaven and when you reach that golden country you will meet Doctor Rice there, not racked with pain or scorched with fever but arrayed in splendor. Thank God for this hope; that we shall see Dr. Rice again beyond death's chilly river. In that home where changes never come, Nor pain, nor sorrow, toil nor care, Yes—'tis a bright and blessed home Who would not fain be resting there. ADAM HARMAN.

Murrill is much loved here and with the aid of the singer attracted large audiences. Rev. Manna From Skies

Manna which fell from the skies last year near Jerusalem has been received in the U. S. by the Department of Commerce. It was sent by the Syrian Bishop of Jerusalem. The manna is a grayish-white substance which fell during the night like dew and was gathered by placing sheets under trees from which it was shaken when the rising sun had dried it on the leaves. It is supposed to be the same substance which fell for the Israelites in the wilderness.

THE MAN WHO LOOKS VIGOROUS

Good red blood is the only sure foundation of Permanent Health and Vigor.

Good color, bright eyes, solid flesh, erect bearing are dependent upon rich red blood. If your blood is not up to the mark your general health can not be. Late hours, eating the wrong foods, working indoors, fatigue, affect the blood. So many people eat well and take exercise, yet never seem to improve in health. Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken regularly for a while gives the blood that richness and redness that produces bounding health and vigor. It is a simple, natural way to get well and strong. Gude's Pepto-Mangan comes in liquid or tablets—at your druggist's. Advertisement.
